X-Files fans, neurofibromatosis advocates, and coffee lovers are uniting on February 23, 2018 for a bit of fun at coffee shops around the globe. ScullyCoffee4NF is a fundraiser for The Neurofibromatosis Network, and we're hoping you'll want to get in on the fun.

On the show, Mulder yells out for "Scullaaay!" on numerous occasions; baristas yell out names when a coffee order is up. We're asking fans to give their name as Scully, share a picture on social media with #ScullyCoffee4NF, then make a small donation to The NF Network. However, it was brought to my attention early on that not every coffee shop takes names. So here's where you come in.

Would you be willing to offer an alien/space/monster/X-Files themed drink that day, then donate X amount of money for each one sold to the NF Network? Could be an alien or X latte art, green tea latte, Americano with "cold whole milk" (that's how Gillian Anderson takes her coffee)...the X-Files is a weird show, so anything goes!

Why X-Files and neurofibromatosis? Gillian Anderson, who portrayed Dana Scully for 10 seasons, lost her brother Aaron to a form of NF. It's a genetic disorder that affects approximately 100,000 in the US, but research is underfunded. All donations will be done through The Neurofibromatosis Network and are tax deductible. If you can help or have any questions you can contact the event organizer at ScullyCoffee4NF@gmail.com

We 'want to believe' that this is going to be an X-cellent fundraiser, your help will make it even better!
